

CALL FOR COLLABORATORS: BRAINTECH 2025 INVITES AUSTRALIAN RESEARCHERS AND STARTUPS TO SHARE BREAKTHROUGHS IN BRAIN HEALTH

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA – 21 AUGUST 2025 – The inaugural BrainTech 2025 summit, to be held on Thursday 30 October 2025 at the Jumar Bioincubator in Melbourne, is calling on Australia's brightest neurotech researchers, investors, startups, and innovators to share their work with a room full of collaborators, champions, and future partners.

BrainTech is helping to revolutionise health by exploring how neuroscience and technology are transforming our understanding of the brain - and reshaping the way we prevent, diagnose, and treat conditions such as depression, anxiety, Alzheimer's, epilepsy, and Parkinson's.

Startups and researchers are invited to submit an Expression of Interest to present their work through lightning talks, posters or demo tables. Submissions are open now via google form.

BrainTech 2025 is your opportunity to:

- Share breakthroughs with an audience of BrainTech champions
- Hear from pioneers at the forefront of neuroscience, neurotech and brain health
- Connect with collaborators across research, startups, pharma and technology
- Be part of the cross-pollination of ideas that will define the future of care

The one-day summit will feature an outstanding lineup of speakers, including:

- Adam Caplan - Founder and General Partner, Jumpspace Ventures
- Prof. Mark Cook – Director of Clinical Neurosciences, St Vincent's Hospital
- Rachel de las Heras - CEO, Ceretas
- Hon Weng Chong - CEO and Founder, Cortical Labs
- Prof. Cassandra Szoeki – Lead, Women's Healthy Ageing Program, Monash Centre for Health Research
- Rachel Levin – Investment Director, National Reconstruction Fund
- Harikesh Pushpapathan – General Partner, Stoic VC
- Andrew Maxwell – Chairman, Cyban
- Dr Kathryn Sunn – CEO, Celosia Therapeutics and Director of Commercialisation, Macquarie University
- And more!

“BrainTech 2025 is a day to dream big and imagine the possible,” said event organiser Rachel Slattery.

“We're bringing together innovators, researchers, funders and enablers who recognise the brain's critical role in shaping the future of health - and who are ready to spark the collaborations that will get us there.”
